

Heather Poulin, MS, R.T.N.M., CNMT
Program Director, Nuclear Medicine Technology Program

Education:

Dalhousie University, Halifax, Nova Scotia – Bachelor degree, major Biology

New Brunswick Community College, Saint John, New Brunswick-Diploma – Nuclear Medicine Technology

University of St. Francis, Joliet, IL- Master of Science in Health Services Administration

Teaching Expertise:

Radiopharmacy and radiation safety In Nuclear Medicine
Evidence based practice with application in Nuclear Medicine procedures and protocols
Process improvement for improved patient care and comfort for the patient in Nuclear Medicine

Presentations:

Nuclear Medicine Technology: History, Current Procedures and Future Directions - Presented to Biomedical Students at University of Presque Isle in 2013 and to the Radiology Students at Kennebec Valley Community College annually from 2012-present

Radiologic Technology Board of Examiners and Committee on Labor, Commerce, Research and Economic Development – 2013 to 2015. Presented information on nuclear medicine technology educational requirements regarding nuclear medicine technologists and CT hybrid imaging including requirements of the educational program accreditors (JRCNMT, ARRT, and NMTCB).

